Kahr Firearms Group Sponsors TheManSpot at King of the Hammers Desert Race

(Greeley, PA) - Kahr Firearms Group, a leader in innovative firearms design and manufacturing, is proud to announce its sponsorship of TheManSpot at the King of the Hammers desert race and festival.

Vaughn Neville, better known as TheManSpot by his social media fans, will be competing in the 2019 King of the Hammers offroad race. Neville is an online marketer, American patriot, defender of the U.S. Constitution, firearms enthusiast, and off-road racer among other things. His digital platform and social media following have allowed him to share his passions with the world and support many causes that are dear to him. Neville will be racing in the 4500 class on Wednesday, February 6. His race number will be #4501.

"Kahr Firearms Group is happy to support TheManSpot at King of the Hammers race week," says Jodi DePorter, Director of Marketing for Kahr Firearms Group. "We continue to reach out and give support to like-minded individuals around us with whom we share common interests and passions."

King of the Hammers, held in Johnson Valley, CA, is the largest off-road event in the country with hundreds of teams competing throughout the week and nearly fifty thousand spectators. The week-long event consists of off-road challenges and qualifying heats, extreme endurance races and the ends with the final event, the 13th annual Nitto King of The Hammers Powered by Optima Batteries on Friday, February 8th, 2019.

TheManSpot Team will share a pit with John Williams, owner of Impulse Offroad. They will be passing out Red Bull energy drinks, and will have a booth set up selling gear from TheManSpot, Tactical Baby Gear and Yankum Ropes. Williams is well-known in the off-road racing world and has years of competitive experience in the sport. He currently works as a Ford Raptor instructor at the Ford Performance Racing

School, in addition to his Impulse Offroad garage.
